

Magistral®

For an effective, natural and safe way to help maintain prostate health

Prostate problems – far more common than you think!

Studies reveal that a high number of men are at risk of enlarged prostate-related health problems, including urinary and sexual conditions.

- An enlarged prostate is the most common reason for men to visit a urologist.¹
- Prostatitis, a condition where the prostate becomes inflamed, can affect men of all ages, and affects over a third of all men aged 50 and older.²
- Benign Prostatic Hyperplasia (BPH) will affect half of all men by the age of 60.³

Although the prostate continues to grow throughout a man's life, undesirable prostate enlargement symptoms usually occur later in life. These uncomfortable symptoms include:

Frequent urination – Poor urine flow – Erectile problems – Night-time urination
